Cheswick Green was originally developed in the 1970's as a self contained 'modern village' in the countryside, and it has lived up to it's original design brief from the outset. It benefits from its own small parade of shops, doctors surgery, community centre, children's play area, village pub and central village green. As with all villages, there is a community nursery, junior and infant school. Local bus services act as a school service for children going to the senior schooling in Solihull, for which we are advised that Alderbrook is the catchment school for this area. Education facilities are subject to confirmation from the Education Department.

There is easy access by road via the A34 Stratford Road to the M42 motorway, and a short journey down it will bring you to the National Exhibition Centre and Birmingham International Airport and Railway Station.

The main shopping area for the property is on the A34 Stratford Road in Shirley, where there is an excellent array of shops, business premises, restaurants and hostelrys, or in central Solihull which has in recent years undergone re-development with the Touchwood Development, a modern and vibrant heart to the old town.

This detached bungalow is situated at the top end of the development and occupies a wide plot which affords further extension potential (subject to necessary planning permissions).

Sitting back from the behind a front driveway with foregardens to both sides. A double glazed front door opens to the
